Virgil The Cool Cat Says...

Virgil, the AA Air shop cat has learned much about heating and air since coming to live with us. He attends webinars on new technology, sits in on staff meetings and never misses John Key's training classes! Enjoy these seasonal tips from Virgil:

Avoid the damage heating problems can cause during freezing weather!

- On sunny days, take advantage of the sun to bring in heat. Adjust blinds so they are open and tilted toward the ceiling.
- Set your ceiling fan in reverse position, on low.
- Keep nose wet! Heating can dry out sinuses; encouraging illness. Use a humidifier.
- Make sure the damper is closed when you're not using your fireplace.
- Use exhaust fans sparingly, and turn them off when not in use during colder weather.
- Have your heating system tuned up at least once per year.
- Be sure your heating tune-up includes: Inspection of gas systems; thermostat calibration; inspection and cleaning of the air handler/blower; filter inspection and cleaning; inspection of wiring and connections; identification of hot and cold spots in the home; and gauging electrical systems for proper amp draw.
